DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102/103

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1, 6 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over European 0506465.

EP '465 discloses thermoplastic elastomer compositions obtained by mixing a rubber, inclusive of hydrogenated nitrile rubber (example 2) and a polyester elastomer followed by dynamic vulcanization. The introduction of a functional group such as carboxyl group into the rubber leads to higher compatibility with the polyester elastomer. The gel content of the rubber is at least 50 percent.

The disclosure of the reference meets the requirements of the above-rejected claims in terms of the types of materials added. The onus is shifted to applicants to establish that the product of the present claims is not the same as or obvious from that set forth by the reference.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. Claims 2-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over European 0506465 described hereinabove

The reference clearly teaches that introduction of a functional group, such as carboxyl group, into the rubber leads to higher compatibility with the polyester elastomer. Accordingly, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to have employed a rubber having a functional group.

5.. Claims 1-4, 6 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as unpatentable over U.S. 6,020,417 (Abraham et al) in view of European 0506465.

Abraham et al disclose thermoplastic vulcanizates of carboxylated nitrile rubber and polyester thermoplastics. The components, alone with curing agents, are dynamically vulcanized resulting in dispersion of the rubber in the polyester matrix. The use of carboxylated nitrile rubber having a gel content of 50-60 weight percent is demonstrated in the examples (Nipol 1072 x 28).

The disclosure of the Abraham et al differs in essence from the claimed subject matter in that the carboxylated nitrile rubber is not hydrogenated. EP '465 discloses the use of nitrile rubbers both unhydrogenated and hydrogenated in similar-such thermoplastic elastomer compositions. These rubbers may additionally contain functional groups, such as carboxyl groups, incorporated therein. Accordingly, given that it is known in the art to suitably employ hydrogenated nitrile rubbers in similar such compositions, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to have employed a hydrogenated version of the carboxylated nitrile rubber of Abraham et al for its expected known additive effect of enhanced weathering resistance.

Double Patenting

6. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

7. Claims 1-4, 6 and 7 are provisionally rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims of copending Application No.

11/631,293. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the rubber of the copending application embraces rubbers having gel contents as presently claimed and the polyester component of the present claims embraces polyesters having the MFR range of the copending claims.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

Conclusion

8. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

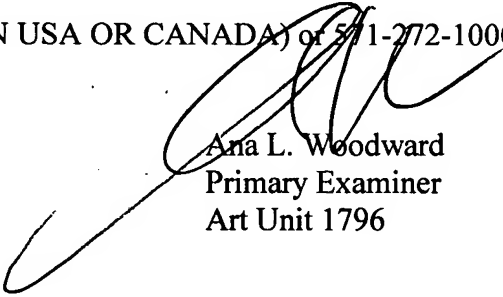

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
